

St. Joseph's School, Rhenock strictly maintains annual curriculum plan with a rigorous interactive teaching and learning process. The school is committed to this cause. We are amidst highly evolving times and in many cases we are not really in a position to react to the present situations and scenario. We have a great concern regarding reaching out to our students. As much as the students may be missing the school and its teaching, we too are missing our students and their coming to the school. This is the time when we need to stand tall and strong as a big family belonging to the entire nation and the world at large. Now is the time not to react, but respond pro-actively. Our response should have impact in us and around us. You are aware that the school and its committed teachers have taken up the challenge of starting online teaching and in fact it has already started for all classes. We are still in lockdown situation and we do not have any immediate solution to it. I appeal to each student to understand the adverse impact of the COVID-19. The break or lockdown which we have is not meant for enjoyment. It is rather a time to remain calm and keep connected with our education system. I believe each one of you is working on ways and means of helping yourself to improve your current knowledge by reading books and doing the given assignments. Kindly keep in touch with your teachers and update yourself with the ongoing online teaching process. Dear parents and students, this is also a time to pitch in with your family members and help one another. Parents/guardian can teach your own children, not only in reading and writing but other manual household works as well. They can be encouraged to learn new activities and enhance their skills. Most importantly, at present as the world is going through a crisis; as a responsible citizen, we need to follow the guidelines provided by the government. Social distancing is most important. Keep yourselves sanitized. Stay at home with your parents and dear ones. The motto of our school is LOVE and SERVICE. Let us love ourselves first by maintaining the guidelines given by the government and thus we render service to the nation. Dear parents do not panic regarding the academics of your children. We promise that reopening of the school will ensure every possible way to complete the syllabus and help your children with academic excellence. Kindly cooperate with the teachers in online teaching. Together we can make a big difference in the lives of our children. Stay home, Stay Safe. God bless you.
